Electric Potential Work and Potential Energy

The work done by a force on an object to move it from point i to point f is opposite to the change in the potential energy: $W_{UU} = -\Delta U = -\int_i^f \mathbf{F} \cdot d\mathbf{r}$ In other words, if the work expended by the force is positive, the potential energy of the object is lowered For example, if an apple is dropped from the branch of a tree, the force of gravity does work to move (accelerate actually) the apple
